

References

- [1] <http://www.mysrilanka.com/travel/theland/climate.htm>
- [2] Edward. G. Pita- Air-conditioning principles and system (An energy Approach) pp120-150
- [3] DEROB-LTH (1999), the user manual Department of Building Science, Lund
Institute of Technology, Sweden
- [4] Luxmoor, David A and Jayasinghe.M.Thushane and Mahindra, Mahen (2005)
Mitigating Temperature increases in high lot density sub –Tropical residential Developments. Energy and Building 37 pp 1212 -1224.
- [5] R.S.Khurmi, J.K. Gupta –A Textbook of Refrigeration and Air Conditioning pp 571-573
- [6] Eng. Chandana Dalugoda-Introduction to Air-conditioning-M.Sc in Electrical Installation
Tute No 1
- [7] Edward.G.Pita-Airconditioning Principles and Systems pp 189-195
- [8] Eng. Chandana Dalugoda-Introduction to Air-conditioning-M.Sc in Electrical
Installation Tute No 2
- [9] R.S.Khurmi, J.K. Gupta –A Textbook of Refrigeration and Air Conditioning pp
533-553
- [10] Eng. Chandana Dalugoda-Introduction to Air-conditioning-M.Sc in Electrical
Installation Tute No 6
- [11] Srilanka Sustainable Energy Authority–Code of Practice for Energy Efficient
Buildings in Srilanka-2008 pp 19-21
- [12] W.P jones–Airconditioning Applications and Design pp 19-21
- [13] www.singersl.com
- [14] www.ceb.lk/tariff
- [15] Erik johanson. Housing Development & Management (HDM) ,
Thermal properties of Building Materials pp 01-08